LANDLORDS ARE ASKED TH HELP

Merchants Circulate Petition, Which is Liberally Signed, Calling Upon Landlords to Reduce Rents in Proportion to Business Transacted.

Asking that owing to the present depression landlords reduce their rental fees in proportion to the amount of business transacted by the merchants, a petition was circulated today by a local merchant.

The movement is in line with what The Eagle has been advocating for some time, and is liberally subscribed to. All the merchants who signed the petition believe that the landlords should be willing to do their part in bringing over the temporary crisis.

We, the undersigned merchants of the city of Dothan, owing to the very stringent times brought on by the war, and very low price of cotton, reducing our business from half to two-thirds this year against last year to date, kindly ask and pray our landlords to reduce the store rents in proportion to the amount of business done by each respective merchant:

Man convicted of murdering Mary Phagan, whose mutilated body was found in the boiler room at the plant of the National Pencil Factory in Atlanta, where she worked. Leo M. The Supreme Court of Georgia, in a decision handed down today, sustains the lower court in refusing to set aside the verdict of the jury on the grounds that Frank was not present when the verdict was returned.

COURT DECIDES AGAINST FRANK

Georgia Supreme Court Refuses to Set Aside Verdict of Lower Court in Case of Man Convicted of Murdering Mary Phagan.

The Supreme Court of Georgia today decided against Leo M. Frank of Atlanta, tried and convicted on a charge of murdering Mary Phagan, the little factory girl, and upheld the lower court in refusing to set aside the verdict of the jury on the grounds that the defendant was not present when the verdict was returned.

The action of the Georgia Supreme Court will be of much interest, because of the wide spread attention the Frank case attracted throughout the United States, and the dramatic trial and various investigations, to say nothing of alleged plots and counterplots.

The great William J. Burns was finally brought into the case, but his work failed to annul the investigations conducted by the Atlanta Detective Department and Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey. Burns, however, did not enter the case until after the matter had been in the courts.

After delivering his lecture in Dothan, Cummings will return to Birmingham and speak at the Bijou Theatre in that city at a meeting Thursday night. He made an address at the Jefferson Theatre last Sunday afternoon.

BRITISH SHIP AUDACIOUS IS SUNK BY MINE

New York, Nov. 14.—The British dreadnaught Audacious, one of the most powerful ships in the English navy, has been sunk off the coast of Ireland presumably by a mine. The British censors have suppressed the news, but the International News Service today received the information by mail from the London Bureau together with photographs showing the Audacious half submerged.

It is said the Haver Glynville came up with the Audacious in time to tow her into shallow water before she foundered and efforts are now being made to raise the dreadnaught.

Doesn't matter what you want, if you want to buy it for less, be sure that you go to the Red Front 5 and 10c Store for it. They sell a little of almost everything and sell it for less.

SEVERE SHOOTING AFFRAY.

THREE MILLION MEN IN FRENCH RESERVES

Paris, (Nov. 14.—By Mail to New York to Escape Censor.) The French army consists of six million men instead of three million. Three million are held in barracks fully trained and equipped ready to be hurled at the German line when the invaders show signs of demoralization and Russians ready for their real attacks toward the German interior.

Germans have two and a half million men on the western battle front opposing three million French and six hundred thousand British and Belgians, but owing to General Joffre's careful nurture of his strength, the forces actually engaged are approximately equal.

It is evident that General Joffre intends to let the Germans wear themselves out with their desperate massed attacks and then hurl the entire allied force against them in a great effort to annihilate the Kaiser's forces.

Fox Escapes And Is Spurred By a Dog

The grey fox owned by R. W. Clendinning escaped this afternoon and promenade St. Andrews street in the business district to his home's content, but was later caught.

The fox did not want to leave Dothan in the first place, but merely wanted an opportunity to see what kind of town he lived in, and after satisfying his wanderlust, returned to his captors without struggle.

After making the circuit of business, the animal capered along St. Andrews street, peering in at store doors, and surveying the sidewalk generally. Finally he saw a scared country dog, and, waving a flag of truce, went to the animal and tried to start a conversation. But the dog did not believe in conversation. The dog ran out of the town and gave the fox the go-by.

The fox is back in his cage.

PATHETIC SIGHT.

By Walt Mason.

"This afternoon I saw a man, 45 years old, swinging a pickaxe in the street," said the melancholy boarder. "He draws about a dollar and a quarter for the hardest kind of labor, that would exhaust a man half his age. What a lesson he should be to young men! If he had saved his money when he was younger, he probably wouldn't have to work like a galley slave in his old age."

"It is possible that you are wasting your sympathy," observed the star boarder. "In all probability that venerable man is as hard as steel, and as sound in mind and limb as a government mule. I have no doubt that his digestive machinery goes like clockwork and when midnight arrives he can eat everything in sight, and when he goes to bed he just kicks up his heels and goes to sleep, and it probably takes three alarm clocks and a crowbar to rouse him in the morning."

"That old man, if he is like other venerable laboring men I have known, doesn't need anybody's consolation. The fact that he can shoulder his pick-axe and do his duty along with younger men is evidence that he is to be envied. Probably he is good for fifteen or twenty years of hard work yet. He'll keep on working and enjoying his career until something breaks inside of him some day and then he will go to sleep without a bit of fuss."

"If he had saved his money when he was young he probably would have retired from active work five or ten years ago. The worst thing a hard working man can do is to wield a spade or a jimmy, he should stick to his proper occupation. A month after his retirement he begins to notice that he is breaking up physically. He notes the symptoms of divers and sundry diseases, any one of which will prove fatal, if given enough rope."

"It's a peculiar fact that the man with nothing useful to do always develops symptoms of disease. While he is busy he has no time for such trifles. His mind is on his work where it ought to be, or he is thinking of the corking time he will have on the following Fourth of July by which period he will have saved three or four dollars. A man must occupy his mind with something, and symptoms seem to come natural to a man after he is fifty years old. The symptoms of any disease are worse than the disease itself," Mrs. Giggles. And when once a doctor's pocket has a collection of symptoms, all the sunshine goes out of his eyes."

"The old and hearty old man of whom we are speaking would be surprised to find that he had

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt. — "We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would blot. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me." — MRS. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine. It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

would have lumbago and kidney trouble and varicose veins and bone spavins. Also, he would be piling on fat in a perfectly ridiculous way. That's one of the penalties of retirement from active life. A man gets abominably fat. That would not be so humiliating if he could eat enough to justify the increase of weight, but he can't. His appetite is a melancholy ruin, and every time he eats something that doesn't agree with him he has acute indigestion, and has to summon the veterinary surgeon.

When he was working hard he could eat sardines with cream over them, or mix up codfish balls with lemon ice, and never have a pang, and the more he ate the thinner he got and the better he felt.

"So the aged man who was foolish enough to have his money to provide for his declining years is sick and crippled, a burden to himself and his landlady, and he finally dies of fatty degeneration of the heart, just when he should be getting some good out of his savings. So, perhaps the best thing you can do, Mrs. Giggles, is to pass the apple pie."

GOING SOME.

Alabama Citizen.

Brother Hugh Roberts of the Birmingham Age-Herald, is one of the most interesting newspaper writers Alabama has produced. His pot-variation is prohibition and prohibitionists. He is not the humorist of the Age-Herald, but some of his writings are vastly more replete with comedy than those of Dolly Dalrymple and Bill Vines. This is about the highest compliment a humorist could receive. Brother Hugh is printing these days a series of purported interviews with members of the new legislature. They are not interviews but written answers to a series of printed questions sent out by the enterprising Hugh. The other day his imagination got away with him and in his enthusiasm in finding one member who was wide-open, sure enough against state-wide prohibition he told how this candidate shook his head when he answered that question. It takes a high order of ability to see a man shaking his head as he poses the answer to a question diversion, that candidate will not represent his county in the next legislature as he was defeated on November 3.

DOWN WITH PRESS AGENT

Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Spanish grandee once observed that all royal and noble Spaniards agreed that the public was an ass and should be ridden. The only point upon which disagreement was possible was who should occupy the saddle.

All special interests agree that the American press is an ass, but there is no disagreement about who shall ride it. The various interests are in hearty agreement that every one who has need of free advertising, or "publicity" as it is called, shall make free and unlimited use of the news columns. It is due to the folly of the press that the burden of free advertising has been long and patiently borne. It is time, surely, to rebel. The interest of the newspaper as a business enterprise; the conscience of the press as a gatherer and distributor of news; the reasonable demand of the reader that advertising shall bear a label, are influences which should combine to put an end to the riding of the ass by everybody and anyone who wants "publicity."

Even the riders are beginning, many of them, to grasp the fact that they have made inordinate demands upon good nature. The American Newspaper Publishers' Association, in Bulletin 2204, reprints a speech of E. A. Moore, representing the State Charities Association of New York, at the charities conference in Philadelphia, in which it is stated that attempts to flick valuable space from newspapers should be abandoned even by organizations fighting tuberculosis.

Mr. Moore is quoted as follows:

"We do not ask the stationer to contribute the paper we use. We do not ask the owners of the building we occupy to contribute our quarters. But we do ask the newspapers to do the equivalent by giving us space, which is like money to them."

"Buy space. Advertise your work as business houses do, and you will get the best publicity in the world, and you will cause a little of the resentment that the newspapers are beginning to feel for you. If you do anything worth a penny the newspapers will print it as news and without your solicitation."

Advertising that is frankly advertising commands respect. Advertising which parades as news not only lessens the respect of the public for newspapers as vehicles of information, but also breeds contempt in the mind of the reader who might, if properly approached, become interested in the enterprise, the commodity, the article, the individual, advertised.

Nowadays a very considerable proportion of the readers of the press quickly recognize, and as quickly resent, "publicity articles" designed to impose upon them by passing off advertising as news.

The paid advertisement challenges attention and disarms criticism. It is an open and above board claim for consideration; not an effort to trade upon a lack of intelligence, more often presumed than actual, among readers.

Publicity bureaus are often so expensive that paid advertising would be less costly. The press could, and should, greatly reduce the volume of free publicity. The result would be more informing and reliable news columns. That reform would be worth more than the advertising which would supplant the free publicity mismanaging an

FAMILY AVOIDS SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Thorford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va. — "I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whitaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble."

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Thorford's Black-Draught, which I did, and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught.

Thorford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people. Your druggist sells and recommends Black-Draught. Price only 25c. Get a package to-day. N. C. 124

If you remember just a few weeks ago, everybody, every politician and a good many ordinary folks, had a plan whereby the sale of cotton would be boosted. We all grabbed at the straw of hope, and believed that a few weeks would see cotton selling at a good price. Cotton is looking up a little, and may get around 30 a pound. If it does, this country will not suffer so much, for we made a big crop of cotton. But everybody has seen that the remedy is not with legislation, but with the farmer who makes the cotton.

A headline in the Montgomery Journal reads: "President Wilson Insulted by Negro Chairman of Delegation." If you read the report carefully you will see that some of the President's backbone was in evidence when the saucy Boston negro began to tell him what he should do.

Marianna, which is just closing its fair, only charged 10 cents admission. That is a price put down within the reach of all, but we wonder if that was necessary in order to get the people to attend.

On Monday morning's express we expect fifteen new snappy suits, that will be the best and prettiest numbers we have shown this fall, unless they fail to come up to expectations. If you have not bought your suit, come here early next week and see these new suits. They are going to be on sale at very moderate prices, not at 20 or 25 per cent. discount but will be great values for prices, as this late in the season the best manufacturers are willing to make up suits at a great deal less price than at first of the season. Hence, these extra values we expect Monday.

We have had such an unusual suit season, that we haven't such a great amount of suits on hand that we are compelled to sacrifice the price on them. However, the ones we have in stock, we have reduced the price to have them on a par with the newer ones that are coming in every week, and that we are able to buy in New York at less prices.

A MESSAGE TO MEN

(From The Dry Goods Economist.)

These are days when men are men. The real men of America are going about their affairs—they have given up their vacations, they are on the firing line of big business, and their courage and patriotism are in evidence every hour of the day. They are not lying down—they are standing up, and they will maintain and improve our place in the sun of commerce and industry.

The way to locate the real men of business these days is to listen to their talk and to see how they act. The real men of business have not pulled down the flag; they have not quit advertising; they have not called in their automobiles; they have not locked the factory door.

Yes, they have in many instances "pulled their belt-tight" a little tighter. They have perhaps curtailed a bit here and there as they mobilized their working forces and reserves—and gained greater efficiency thereby.

But have down the flag and lie down? Never! Let us look about.

A nation of a hundred million people with an untrammeled working organization and the smallest per capita burden of military expenses in the civilized world.

The nation with the greatest internal trade and self-contained in having practically every essential of life within its domain.

The nation that has length, breadth and thickness in its resources, with its own coal, its own iron, its own grain, its own forests, its own cotton, and with absolute freedom of internal commerce.

We have a flexible fiscal system that has made financial panic impossible.

The intensity of the American, always best displayed in a time of stress, will find a substitute for every needed article that enters into our daily life and which we formerly secured from Europe.

We will continue to buy from England, France and Germany all the things that we need which they can send to us. We will sell to the world all the things that we grow and make which the rest of the world can buy from us.

There are some men whose middle name is "Consolation."

They have run to cover after phoning, wiring and writing the people they deal with to "Stop Everything."

The quitter who stops his business campaign recklessly in the man who trades recklessly. He is the anti-conservative. He lacks guts and balance, and he will be the first to go under when pressure comes.

The Power of Power.

The trade-routes of the world are being redrawn.

The great continent to the south of us beckons and says, "We want you to take our wheat, our cattle, our coffee, our rubber, and we will buy your textiles, your machinery, your shoes, your hardware, your oil and all the other things that you make that we need."

The machinery of distribution is the requirement of the moment—and we are making rapid progress.

The Panama Canal is open; cargo-ships of great capacity are passing through the great waterway.

The west coast of North Africa is at our doors. The wheat of California, the lumber of Oregon, have a new pathway to the Atlantic. The greatest blessing that civilization has known in a single season is at the door. The year that brings to Dothan

CHURCHES

THE BIBLE AND ITS PURPOSES.

By Rev. H. H. McNeill.

"And that from a child thou hast known the holy Scripture, which is able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. Every divinely inspired Scripture (pious Theopneustion graphé) is profitable." etc. 2 Tim. 3:15-17.

The Apostle means to tell Timothy that he, Timothy, was well versed in the rabbinical methods of interpreting the Scriptures so as to get behind the letter and find in them the promised Messiah. That such knowledge would enable him to discover that Jesus Christ is the key to the Scriptures, and through faith in Him, the Scriptures become the power of God to salvation. He means to teach that without such knowledge, such insight through faith, the Scripture had no saving power.

Not every one who searches the Scriptures finds eternal life. He has been made wise unto salvation, because he failed to see Jesus in them. To him the Scriptures, impenetrable through faith in Jesus, become a cloud of darkness. To the Jew they are such to day. Without the Messiah, the Old Testament is a sealed book to him and the inspiring, uplifting messages of its prophets, the grail of men the world has ever known, are vain and meaningless.

We have known men who were familiar with the Bible story and could quote passages from it ad libitum; yet they had no saving knowledge—they have only the letter, the letter that kills.

Inspiration.—No Power in Earth and Sun to Create Life, etc.

"Every God-breathed Scripture." A word about inspiration. It is not the language, nor the history, nor botany, nor cosmogony that is inspired; but the religious message—what God has to say to man of his relations to him. Holy men, moved upon by the Holy Spirit, bring to us such messages.

The Bible from the beginning to end has but one purpose—to reveal God to man, and set man in right relations to God. And this it does. Whoever honestly goes to the Bible in search of God and salvation finds both.

For this reason, because of its power to elevate man, redeem him from the lusts of the flesh, show him God and make him feel akin to God—for this reason, the Bible is the greatest book the world has ever known, or is likely to know. It searches, finds and satisfies the wants of universal man, and under all circumstances.

Man's Friend.

The Bible is the staunchest and most helpful friend humanity has ever had. It comes with a message of love to all mankind. It offers comfort to the sorrowful, and hope to the despairing. It guarantees justice and liberty to all men. Surely none save those who are ignorant of its teachings, or who are irrationally prejudiced, can be unfriendly to the Bible.

Huxley's Words.
(Sci. & Chr. Trad.)

"Consider the great historical fact that, for three centuries, this book has been woven into the life of all that is best and noblest in English history. . . . I may add yet another claim of the Bible to the respect and attention of a democratic age. Throughout the history of the Western world, the Scriptures, Jewish and Christian, have been the great instigators of revolt against the worst forms of clerical and political despotism. The Bible has been the Magna Charta of the poor and the oppressed; down to modern times, no state has had a constitution in which the interests of the people are so largely taken into account, in which the DUTIES of rulers are insisted upon, as that drawn up in Deuteronomy and Leviticus; no where is the fundamental truth that the State, in the long run, depends on the uprightness of the citizen so strongly laid down. Assuredly, the Bible talks no trash about the rights of man; but it insists on the equality of duties, on the liberty to bring about that righteousness which is somewhat different from struggling for 'rights' on the fraternity of taking thought for one's neighbor as for one's self."

If what Mr. Huxley says be true, and I think it cannot be questioned, the duty to study and to teach the Bible is clearly important.

Though the Bible is the most democratic book in the world, and the most potent safeguard of liberty, yet those who most need it seem most to neglect it. The one class because it frowns upon their selfish disregard for their neighbor, the other because it restrains them from perverting their liberty into license.

Despotism, in whatever form, whether ecclesiastical or political, whether organized capital or organized labor, is an enemy to the Bible, and attempts to suppress, or pooh-pooh it.

Profitable for Teaching.

Because divinely-inspired the Bible is profitable for teaching man's duty to man. Other books teach most excellent lessons in moral and social ethics. They have fine things to say about truth, justice and equity between man and man; but the Book—The God-breathed Scripture—goes far beyond them all in that it takes a comprehensive view of the whole question. It teaches us to regard the other man as the other self; and enter into such sympathy with him that we will rejoice with him in prosperity and suffer with him in adversity.

The Bible teaches the solidarity of man and knows no classes. If organized capital and organized labor will take it as their arbiter and counselor, they will dwell together in peace and prosperity. Not till then. Capital and labor are both wrong in that they have both ignored the solidarity of man—the great truth of the Bible. They have many, formed classes and arrayed them against one another in jealous, unchristianous, and unloving.

There are great and good men among them, on both sides; but their modus vivendi is wrong. Henceforth harmony is hopeless until both recognize the teaching of the Scriptures. "One is your teacher, even Christ, and all ye are brethren." I have said this much apropos the present situation because it is my duty to promote peace and harmony among men on the proper basis. The Book teaches "peace on earth, and good will to men."

Mysteries of Life.

The Scriptures instruct us in the deep mysteries of life—our own life. In the impenetrable solitude of that life when none can approach, it leads us face to face with the invisible, and in Him to find the response to our soul's deepest cry—our heart's greatest hunger; that the helpless, erring child finds a forgiving, helpful father; that when worn with the toil and fray of life, he may find a friend in God.

In The Home.

The Book should be read and taught around the fireside. No book can build such a home as this book. There are no stories like its stories to mold and fashion the young in righteousness. They implant noble thoughts and lofty ideals in the child life that will send them out as model citizens and a life long comfort to their parents. The story of Abraham, the friend of God; the unparalleled story of Joseph; the beautiful story of the child Samuel, of Moses, and the unique story of Ruth—above all, the story of Jesus and the cross. All fascinating, pure and uplifting. These, when told around the fireside by a devout father, or at the knee of a pious mother, will not fail to bring forth the peaceable fruits of righteousness in after life. Parents cannot make a better investment of their time than to put it into these stories oft told to the children. Let me appeal to you fathers, mothers, to give more time to the instruction of your children in this holy, life-giving Word of God.

The Greater Message.

For the young man and the young woman there are deeper lessons in these stories, and greater messages from the prophets and the Lord himself—the highest of all. You need these when you come to face the trials of life. Do not foolishly think that they curtail your pleasures. They forbid nothing that is wholesome. Whatever they forbid will bring you grief in the end.

Ah, how many vain regrets, how much of sorrow and grief would have been avoided had the counsel of this book been heeded by the young.

Let me beg you to make it a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your path. It will make you wise unto salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.

How Study the Bible?

That depends upon your purpose. Why you study. If you should want a thorough knowledge of all that is in the Book, then take it by books.

If you should want to know the doctrines it teaches as a whole, then take it topically.

But if you want to feed upon it, go to it as you would to a grocery store, or a drug store and select such as you need.

If you are in trouble or sorrowful feed upon the Psalms; read 14th of John.

There is counsel, such as you need, for every state of mind and heart.

It is like going to one of those department stores like Wanamaker's in Philadelphia, etc.

LESSON TEXT.

52. And they led Jesus away to the high priest; and with him were assembled all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes.

54. And Peter followed him afar off, even into the palace of the high priest; and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

66. And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67. And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth.

68. But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

69. And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them.

70. And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilaean, and thy speech agreeth thereto.

71. But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

72. And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crew twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

COLDS

An up-to-date remedy for colds. That is what Peruna is. In successful use over 50 years.

Colds are caught in many ways: illy ventilated rooms; rooms that have direct draughts; crowded rooms; damp houses; stuffy school rooms; offices illy heated.

A dose of Peruna at the right time, at the first symptom of cold, before the bones begin to ache, before the sore throat manifests itself, or the cough, or the discharge from the nose, just a dose or two of Peruna before these symptoms begin is generally sufficient. But after the cold is once established with the above symptoms prominent, a bottle of Peruna, or maybe two, will be necessary.

For several years I have been troubled with colds at each change of season. I took Peruna and have not been troubled with the slightest cold since. (Test a cold coming on. I took Peruna, and it drove me out. Charles E. May, 15 Water

You find in this new stock, a range of choice that is not to be found in any store in any other town of anything like the size of Dothan. Study Club Meeting.

The Dothan Study Club enjoyed the gracious hospitality of Mrs. J. N. Blaum on Friday afternoon. The home was prettily decorated with roses and red chrysanthemums, and the meeting was one of the most delightful of the year.

Mrs. Morris Black was elected a delegate to the Federation which meets in Montgomery next week.

A social hour was spent and delightful sandwiches and tea served by Mrs. Blaum, assisted by Miss Curry and Master Lewis Blaum.

The following program was well rendered and immensely enjoyed:

Roll call—Facts about Norman King's Music.

Instrumental Solo, Mrs. Marvin Lewis.

Paper: "William the Conqueror," Mrs. Ernest Ford.

Composite Story of the Period following the Norman Conquest, Told in Topics, leader Mrs. L. G. Y. Baker.

Reading, Longfellow's discovery of the North Cape, Mrs. T. H. McIntyre.

Young Ladies Missionary Society.

The Young Ladies Missionary Society of the Foster Street Methodist church will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large attendance is urged.

Miss Mildred McCain Entertains—

Quite an enjoyable event of the cheery month of November was when Miss Mildred McCain entertained at a class party the members of the Juniors of the High School last evening from 7:30 to 10:30 at the home of Mrs. Morris Black.

The spacious hall, dining room, and parlor were thrown into one, and the decorations being chrysanthemums presented quite a lovely aspect for these gay young people. The guests on arriving were ushered into the parlor where lively conversation, music and several games were indulged in. The guests then repaired to the dining room and kitchen where they prepared several of the best of candies. After several hours of amusement in this way interspersed with music and other refreshments, the guests departed, taking with them many pleasant thoughts they will never forget.

Those enjoying Miss McCain's hospitality were: Misses Mary Brown, Sara Dinkins, Grace Bosman, Marie Sellers, Eula Staggs, Vera Hall, Julia Park, Grace Faircloth, Eva Glenn, Thelma Nash, and Gladys Whalley, Messrs. Frank man Spann, Rudolph Keyton, Olin Stiggs, Colton Fuller, Lowell Black, and Edward Robbins.

Sunday School Class Meeting—

Mrs. W. S. Wilson entertained the members of her Sunday School class in an informal and pleasing way on Friday evening. The lovely home was prettily decorated in ferns, roses, chrysanthemums and paper white narcissi.

A short business session was held, at which two captains were appointed, Miss Alice Watford and Miss Daisy Simonton. These captains choose different members and will have a close contest for several weeks to see who wins in attendance, Bibles bought and new pupils.

A "Bible Bee" was enjoyed, fun running high, when to the question "Who Swallowed the Whale" every one answered "Jonah."

This class is supporting a girl at the Downing Industrial Institute at Brewton. Every month letters and reports are received from her by the class. This is a splendid work, and the class deserves much credit.

Tea and sandwiches were served, and the meeting was one of pleasure to all.

WHY IT PAYS TO

BUY GOOD GOODS

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside D. S. Burch, associate editor of that publication, writes a most interesting article on junk piles, showing how a careful examination of them reveals the fact that it pays to buy good goods. He recently examined a junk pile on a Wisconsin farm and found it a monument of poor judgment in buying. It was made up of four classes of articles which he enumerates and comments on in part as follows:

"1. Good merchandise that had worn out, 10 per cent.

"Good or fairly good merchandise that had been poorly taken care of, 10 per cent.

"3. Merchandise apparently used only a short time and discarded as useless, 40 per cent.

"4. Small articles of trivial nature that had been bought on an impulse, apparently because they were cheap or 'would do for the purpose,' 40 per cent.

"Junk piles seem to show that the buying public is less skillful in getting service out of cheap articles than from the better grade. Stated differently, only an expert judge of values can make a practical selection of goods, and
